

SNAPPY TILTS FEATURE SHOW

Two Decisions Prove Unpopular With Fans At Weekly Mit Contests

Six snappy boxing contests were listed on the card at the Wasatch arena last night and slam bang action ruled from start to finish in every event. In the feature event of the evening Frankie Harris of Ogden and Cyclone Eddie Kelley of Ogden fought six fast rounds to a draw. In this contest Harris easily shaded Kelley in three of the six rounds while the other three rounds were even. The decision proved unpopular with the fans present.

Harris opened the first spasm by sending his opponent to the ropes on four occasions and although Kelley drew first blood he was outclassed in this session. The second round was even with both men mixing freely. In the third round Harris again had the shade over his opponent when seven straight hits almost sent Kelley out for the count. The fourth and fifth rounds were even while Harris easily earned the shade in the final round. It was apparent to be in better condition than his opponent and dealt four or five timely blows during the session.

NEWBY VS. BROWN
In the semi-windup Red Newby of Ogden outpointed his opponent, Mysterious Jimmie Brown, for four rounds, and had Brown in an exhausted condition several times during the contest. Despite his aggressiveness the contest was declared a draw. This decision, made by Promoter Downing, caused the fans to better disapproval. Newby led the battle from start to finish, knocked his opponent down for the count of three once and was never in danger.

DOWNING EXPLAINS
At the conclusion of this match, after the fans had demanded an explanation, Promoter Downing stated that he had stopped giving hair-line decisions years ago. But with all due credit to Brown, he was outclassed in all departments and in every round in this contest.

Eddie Burns of Ogden and Spuggy McGee of Ogden furnished the fun in a four-round contest. McGee and Burns ruled supreme in this battle with a draw decision at the close proving popular with the fans.

Eddie Smith of Ogden won his bout against Bobby Lewis of Ogden in the first round of his four-round fight. Smith knocked Lewis out in the first round, three times before taking the count. On the first occasion he heard the referee chirp three, on the second, five, and on the third, seven. On the next occasion he took the fall, and Smith displayed rare ability and showed his opponent with left and right hooks.

O'BRIEN LOSES
Jack O'Brien started out in the first round of his four-round tilt with Kid Andrews of Ogden to take honors but lost the decision at the close of the contest. O'Brien swung on Andrews' left eye in the first round inflicting a deep gash, and won the round with ease. In the remaining three rounds, however, the tide of battle turned and Andrews dished out the classiest assortment of swings yet administered in the local arena.

EX-GRID STARS STILL HITTING THE LINE

(N. E. A. Staff Special)
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Many former stars of the college gridiron are amassing the lines of industry, finance and politics with the same power they hit the football line.

William H. Edwards—better known as "Big Bill"—is the biggest of the lot, physically and otherwise. He captained Princeton's 1929 eleven and played right guard. Nobody could stop his charging.

Now he's a successful real estate collector for the second district with headquarters at New York.

A billion dollars passes through his hands yearly.

"Big Bill" is a commander of fortune now, which is one better than being a captain.

And Charles E. Brickley? A greater drop-kicker never lived. Brickley is a broker now in Wall street and worth nearly a million.

"Just like playing the game all over again," says Brickley.

"You play it—not by muscle and might—but by outwitting the other fellow by fair and legitimate methods."

"CUPID" BLACK
Clifford R. Black is another gridiron star who is a power in New York finance.

Black captained Yale's 1918 eleven. They called him "Cupid." He was the prince of punters.

Hugh Jennings didn't "E-yah" himself into baseball, for he was a prima donna shortstop to boot. But it's the "E-yah" Jennings we all think of—not the great Shortstop Jennings.

Germany Schneider had a trick voice. He was not a singer, but a knockout ventriloquist and comedian.

Nick Altruch used to have a voice as well as a knockout punch. Now Nick resorts mostly to pantomime to entertain his customers.

Fonseca plays ball as well as he sings. So far he's always taken his voice culture and baseball fix—city.

In 1915 he played semi-pro ball in the Empire Midwinter League. Manager Graham of the Seals gave him a tryout. He lacked experience.

With two of his pals he joined the Southfield, Utah, club of the Cache Valley League.

He proved to be a regular Rogers Hornsby in the outfield circuit.

He led in everything—hitting, fielding and base running.

Then came Garry Herrmann's offer. No spring racing allowed, says Louisiana governor.

"Less buying and more building" is Connie Mack's warning to big league club owners.

Babe Ruth will try to develop his range so he can knock the apple into Harlem river by 1923 when they move into their new park.

The Stecher will soon be able to taste again. But will Joe risk his head in the lock once more?

Evers and Veeck continue to inject youth into the Cub and Sox corpses.

New Orleans will build a $50,000 fight emporium for "gold fish."

Wonder where Joe Beckett will go when Dempsey visits England? Joe

Like Brickley, he's a broker. Recently he has been sent to Chicago to represent his firm.

TENNEY IS BANKER
Harold S. Tenney, Princeton's center in 1926, is now vice president of the Liberty National bank, New York.

"Brains counted most in football," he says.

"They count most in banking, too."

Walter C. Booth, who played center rush at Princeton in 1920, is a big insurance broker who's cleaning up.

"Football taught me clean play," says Booth.

"It gave me tenacity of purpose and perseverance."

"Football is the best business preparation for any young man."

ACCIES EASILY WIN FROM MONTANA STARS
LOGAN, Feb. 12.—The Utah Aggies had little trouble in defeating the Montana State hoopers here last night, the count being 58 to 24. Hansen and Robinson were the box stars for the winners, each man earning seven field goals.

Jorgensen was the star for the victors. The teams will play another game this evening. The lineup and summary:

GARRY HAD A HEART
CINCINNATI—Showers of praise are being handed Garry Herrmann for pensioning "Benny" Bangroff. The beloved "Benny," who's retiring, had been secretary for the Cincinnati club for thirty years.

Not off the island overnight when Tom Gibbons went over sight-seeing.

Walter Reuther opines that 1921 will be the year of great slippings. He figures that slippers are slipping.

Hunting and eating in Georgia have put Babe Ruth in Jess Willard's class.

George Moriarty and Bill Klem will officiate in the Yankee-Dodger exhibition games.

California will invest nearly a million and a half in new football buildings this year.

Busy year ahead of Joey Sewell. Graduates from Alabama "U" in the spring. Then come wedding bells. After that six months of baseball.

Cincinnati is still shy a second baseman. Halp! Halp!

SCIENTIST TRIES AGAIN
ROME, Feb. 12.—Professor Bondi, astronomer and director of excavations on the Palatine, is going to make another effort to grow sweet potatoes in Italy. He has just received a lot of seed potatoes from the United States agricultural department.

When sweet potatoes have been planted in Italy they have received to ordinary potatoes after a few years.

Professor Bondi hopes to be able to teach them true to their type. He says that old mania rips prove that the ancient Romans grew them.

Great quantities of Canadian wheat are moving from Vancouver to Europe through the Panama Canal.

BARNYARD GOLFERS HEAD FOR FLORIDA

(N. E. A. Staff Special)
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 12.—Barnyard golf stars from all sections of the country are headed in this direction for the national tournament.

The vanguard has already arrived. Horseshoe pitching isn't a young man's game.

Many of the pitchers have long flowing white beards. They present a striking similarity to the old moss-hung trees which shadow the pitching lanes.

HIGH AGE LIMIT
The age limit runs 50 and up. Zeke Snedeker is 83.

Uncle Hughie Palmer, undefeated industrial champ, is 74.

They all act like kids, though. They're keeping young in a new found game of childhood.

TRAINING PROGRAM
No ball player or boxing champion takes better care of himself than those oldsters.

They rise with the sun. They pitch shoes until the 12 o'clock whistle calls 'em to lunch.

Afternoon finds them back perfecting their deliveries.

Stomach is the only thing that stops their day's fun.

They go to bed early and are as particular about what they eat as a college athlete preparing for a test.

The tournament will be conducted on five lanes.

Pegs will be placed the regulation 10 feet apart.

Games will consist of 30 points each.

BUILD STADIUM
The resort city is building a stadium for the event.

It won't be quite so extensive as the grand old men of barnyard are on their mettle.
